

I am Leon Dalman, the editor of The Leda Ladies Volume One. This book is about women who enjoy being dominant and men who like to be submissive to such women. I am one of those men and there are thousands like me throughout the world. You are probably one or you would not have bought this book. If you're a woman and your husband or boyfriend made it available to you, guess what? He may be trying to tell you something. If you are neither, and just reading it out of curiosity, I must tell you about female dominance as a sexual fetish. There are two main types, Leather and Traditional. Leather involves whips, chains, hot wax, ropes, far out costumes and dungeons. Traditional involves normal clothing, flat wooden hairbrushes, straps, canes and activities such as spanking, petticoat punishment and corner time (like the bad boy is doing below). The picture was taken in 1986. That's Lanette Brezky on the left and Joanne Jameson on the right. Both women were only twenty at the time but were already experienced disciplinarians.

HOW IT ALL BEGAN

I created Leda Productions, a video production and publishing company in 1984. It was dedicated to dominant women who practiced traditional discipline. I firmly believed that almost all women had the capability to administer spankings, canings, strappings and other sorts of painful punishment to a man's behind if he wanted it. Furthermore, I believed that because women have been mistreated and dominated by men since time began I wouldn't have much problem finding ones to be in my videos.

I was right. They flocked to the studios that I used for my productions. The fun part about owning a company like Leda was that I was obligated to "live the life" if I was going to make a living off the life - and I still do. The caning shown below was given by Debra, a top executive at an international company and one of the "monsters" I have created over the years. According to her, caning and disciplining men is her relief from the stress of her job.
